- It sparked my interest in many topics I did not know before
- I am very interested in the field of International Relations, so it is always refreshing and humbling to learn about something that I am ignorant of

教員からのコメント Comment from the faculty

Although ICU returned to in-person teaching, this class was (regrettably) designated as 'on-line'. Given the number of students, this limited the amount of interactions, and although I tried to compensate through live class surveys and breakout room discussions, it is clearly not the same (as students indicate). Nevertheless, I believe we achieved our learning goals, and while I look forward to this class being taught in person from next year, I still think this was an instructive experience.
